How the Great Tariff Debate is Listened to by Republican Congressmen.

One of Harrison's Collectors Leaves His Post to Take Part in a Contested Seat Fight-Opposition to Bryant's Confirmation-

One Sided Affair,

Special to the Gazette WASHINGTON, May 9 .- The tariff disoussion in the house is proceeding before extremely small audiences, Scarcely one-fourth of the members are present during the speech making and only occasionally is any particular show of interest made on the part of those present. One particular feature is the conduct of the minori-When a Republican is speaking a Muster around him. When a Democratic peaker takes the floor nearly every Republican goes into the cloak rooms. Sometimes there are not more than a dozen in their seats and they are usually engaged in writing and reading news-papers. When the Democratic orator finishes and a Republican takes the floor the Republicans come out of the rooms again and sit him until finished, around giving him such applause as is absolutely necessary to keep things going. The discourtesy to the Democratic speaker is very marked, but they, so far, have paid no attention and in no way have endeavored to retaliste. It is difficult to explain the apparent lack of interest except by the fact that it is a foregone onclusion that the bill is to be rushed through the house, and the less talk about it the easier it can be done. The Republican secret opposition is strong, but the understanding that the bill the house and then be superseded by the bill from the senate takes away the interest in McKinley's bill. The Republicans are afraid of discussion on the and have no argument which furnish half an excuse the evil there is in the measure. The Democrats, on the other hand, have all of the arguments on their side and know how to use them. One thing they regret, is the want of a large audience to listen to what they have to say.

A FAITHFUL SERVER.

Special to the Gazette. WASHINGTON, May 9 .- Collector Wimberiey, appointed by President Harrison at the 'nstance of Fort Pillow Chalmers, John R. Lynch and the rest of the ortho dox crowd in Mississippi, finds it convenient to leave his office for weeks to run itself and comes on here to help his friend, "Jim" Hill, contest the seat of Representative Catchings of the Third district of Mississippl . Hill is what is known as a 'yellow Catchings is a very member personally, and man. Hill has to overcome the force of that fact as well as of the 7010 majority.

The Republican majority in the house, mereover, is now strong enough to stand There may be a Democrat or two unseated as yet, but the chances in favor of the Third Mississippl district are all against such change there. Hill feels much encouraged by the action of the committee on McDuffie-Turnin contest, but subject to the Diagram of the county Democratus experiment. The fact is the Republican majority in the elections the house are not going to give seats to any more men and brethren of African descent if they can help it. FIGHTING BRYANT. Star chamber proceedings are difficult to obtain, and since the investigation of re-election to the office of tax assessor of Tarrant | the newspaper men by the senate, greatcounty, subsect to the action of the Democratic er secresy attends the executive sessions than ever before in the committee, and the senate itself. Bryant, recently nominated for district judge to fill Judge Sabin's place, will have a hard fight for confirmation. It seems Mr. Bryant's political proclivities are not sufficiently pronounced, and this as the reason for trimming bim down. His nomination was secured largely through the efforts of Congressman Hare and Congressman Browne of Indiana, who are warm personal friends, the late ter being an attached friend of Bryant. It is said that the impeachment of Bryant's penonment of Bryant's political faith comes largely from Burkhart, and his friends. It was at first thought Mr. Ogden was the prime mover in the case, but his telegram of congratulation to Mr. Bryant is sufficient evidence that to Mr. Bryant is sufficient evidence that he is not in the contest. Senators Hawley author of the county Democratic convention.

To Mr. Bryant is sufficient evidence that he is not in the contest. Senators Hawley and Hoar have been active in their support of Bryant, and it is believed he will pull through despite the important of the support of Bryant. he will pull through despite the impeachment of his political faith. Your correspondent saw Senator Coke tonight about this matter. He speaks well of Mr. Bryant and says he is an able lawyer and an excellent citizen. He thinks Bryant will pull through. The judiciary committee will meet on Morday, when it is expected the nomination will be acted on. Gen. Browne in Indiana, but is expected here early next week, when he will use his influence in behalf of Bryant. Senators Coke and Reagan indorsed Burnett, but of course both will vote for Bryant. There are very few that believe Bryant will fail of confirmation, but the charges above stated have been made against him, and he must prove his political lovalty to the satisfaction of the committee before he can expect his commis-

Smith, the Fort Worth pitcher, did the work. His handling of the pigskin was the best he has done since he has been in Fort Worth, and as he received good support from the Fort Worth fielders it is not surprising that the Dallasites were not able to run their batting averages up at a rapid home team did the best field work they have done at home this year. The two errors charged against them were hard to escape. McVey's was made on a hot liner, which hugged the foul line, while Sherry's was a muffed fly, which resulted in a double play.
